

Robert Parker
WINE ADVOCATE
FEBRUARY 28, 2018

93+
POINTS

CVNE Imperial Gran Reserva 2011

I'm always looking forward to tasting CVNE's Gran Reserva bottlings, especially the 2011 Imperial Gran Reserva, as the year was highly praised, and I was very curious to see how it behaved. It's a classical blend of Tempranillo with 10% Graciano and 5% Mazuelo that matured in barrel for two years. It has good depth and complexity in the nose, nicely layered, very balsamic and tertiary. It feels elegant and harmonious.

The palate is surprisingly fresh and vibrant, with finesse, freshness, fine and mostly resolved tannins and a fine thread of acidity that holds up to the finish.

Imperial Grand Reserva 2011

“Good depth and complexity in the nose, nicely layered, very balsamic and tertiary. It feels elegant and harmonious. The palate is surprisingly fresh and vibrant, with finesse, freshness, fine and mostly resolved tannins and a fine thread of acidity that holds up to the finish.”

Robert Parker
WINE ADVOCATE

FEBRUARY 28, 2018

Imperial Grand Reserva 2011

“Good depth and complexity in the nose, nicely layered, very balsamic and tertiary. It feels elegant and harmonious. The palate is surprisingly fresh and vibrant, with finesse, freshness, fine and mostly resolved tannins and a fine thread of acidity that holds up to the finish.”

Robert Parker
WINE ADVOCATE

FEBRUARY 28, 2018

MARITIME WINE TRADING COLLECTIVE

MARITIME WINE TRADING COLLECTIVE